mail2web.com involved in the new Porsche Prototype for the ALMS

Toronto, Ontario --- June 28, 2005

mail2web.com, a world leading and free web-based email application, and registered trademark of global service provider SoftCom Technology Consulting Inc., is proud to announce it's involvement in the new Porsche Prototype for the American Le Mans Series.

Having concluded the first functional tests at Porsche's track in Weissach, the new carbon-fibre Kevlar body racing car is being readied for its debut at the final two races of the 2005 ALMS season.
